A Wonderful Discovery

A Wonderful Discovery

This is the age of research and experiment, when all nature, so to speak, is ransacked by the scientific for the comf rt and happiness of man Science has indeed made giant strides during the sat century, and among the by no means least important—discoveries in medicine comes that of Therapion. his preparation is unquestionably one of the most geneine and reliable Parent Medicines ever introduced, and has, we junderstand, been used in the Continental inospitals by Ricord, Rostan, Jobert-Velpeau, Maisonneuve, the well-known Chas, saignas, and indeed by all those who are regarded as authorities in such matters, including the celebrated Latiemand, and Roux, by whom it was some time since uniformly adopted, and that it is worthy the attention of those who require such a remedy we think there is no doub. From the time of Aristotic downwards, a potent agent in the removal of these diseases has (like the fam-d philosopher's stone, been the object of search of some hopeful, generous minds; and far beyond the mere power—if such could ever have been discovered—of transmuring he baser modals into gold is surely the discovery of a remedy so potent as effectually, specify and safely to expel from the system the poisons of acquired or inherited disease in all their protean forms as to leave no testic or trace behind. Such is The New French Remeny therapion, which may certainly rank with, it not take procedure of, many of the dis overice of our dey, about which no little estentation and noise have been made, and the extensive and ever-increasing demand that has been or at-d for this modicine wherever introduced appears to prove that it is destined to cast into oblivious all those questionshle remedical men. Therapion may be obtained in England, direct from the proprietor, and of the principal Chemistand direct, Kimberley.

Rapid Success,-"That's one of the st-selling books of the year, Mister!" "It is? I never heard of it." "Well, it's only been out a couple o days."-Puck.

The inauguration, planter's meeting, appointment of new officials, consummation of the bond arrangements and finally the withdrawal of the Kohala water franchise from sale, were the principal events of a busy week which interested the commercial world mightily.

PLANTER'S MEETING.

The meeting of the Hawaiian Sugar Planter's Sugar Association occupied the first two days of the week. Some forty managers and plantation men generally attended the meetings and the discussions were full of interest. The valuable papers read at the meeting are to be published in the Planter's Monthly.

The statistics presented for the first time by Secretary Smith, showed the largest increase in sugar production since the inception of the industry in the islands. The total crop was 437,991 tons, an increase of 80,000 tons over last year. Hawaii as usual furnished the largest portion of the crop, with 170,000 tons, while Oahu turned out 121,000 tons in round figures. while Oahu turned out 121,000 tons in round figures.

THE MOANA HOTEL.

Although the Moana Hotel stockholders have decided to no longer bear the burden of the property, the popular hostelry will not be closed. Just what will be done with the hotel will be decided at a meeting of the bondholders, which will probably be held this week. The Hawaiian Trust Co, as trustee yesterday sent to the bondholders the following notice of a resolution which had been passed by the stockholders: "Resolved that the secretary be instructed to notify the trustees of the bondholders that the Board of Directors and the stockholders find themselves unable to arrange for the amount of money necessary to pay the delinquent taxes and to pay the premium on the amount of insurance required by the terms of the trust deed."

The bonds outstanding against the company amount to $100,000 all held in the islands, and the notice indicates no default in the interest.

Governor Carter yesterday sent to Land Commissioner Boyd instructions to postpone the sale of the Kohala water license. This amounts to a withdrawal of the leases for the time being, as the sale was to have been held tomorrow morning. Governor Carter said yesterday that his objections to the terms of the terms of the care of the terms of the the leases for the time being, as the sale was to have been held tomorrow morning. Governor Carter said yesterday that his objections to the terms of the lease were to the insufficiency of precautions to preserve the benefits to the small consumers, and also to lack of safeguards for the Territory's interests in connection with the net revenue clause. The Governor, however, favors the construction of the ditch, and says that he will endeavor to hasten the project in every way possible, conserving the public interest at the same time.

Land commissioner Boyd says that he has always been opposed to sales under the conditions by which the Territory was to receive a percentage of the net profits instead of the gross revenue. He also attributes the fact of his failure to secure reappointment to the influences which opposed his views on the Kohala franchise matter. After the terms of the lease have been thoroughly investigated by the new Governor a new auction will be advertised. Gehr is now in Washington and evidently repeating his assertions before the Department of the Interior, as Secretary Hitchcock cabled to the Governor and asked if Gehr had any legal claims to the franchise. legal claims to the franchise.

MONEY WILL BE TIED UP AGAIN.

The completion of the arrangements for bringing to Honolulu the million The completion of the arrangements for bringing to Honolulu the million dollar loan fund brings up again the question of the necessity for some action on the part of the legislature, for the deposit of public funds. The million dollars will have to lay idle in the vaults of the treasury, without drawing interests, for at least six months or so, or until it is paid out for improvements. The four banks of the city have contracted to bring the money to Honolulu, agreeing to have the gold at the disposal of the government by January 15th, although it will be here in December. The coin is to be placed in the treasury as soon as it arrives and will have to stay there until it is paid out on contracts. As there is a prospect also of some of the items in the loan act being involved in litigation over the differences of opinion as to the rights of the county to spend loan money, a goodly portion of the million dollars may remain locked up for some time. a goodly portion of the million dollars may remain locked up for some time. The four banks are made trustees for the government in bringing the money to Hawaii and as one banker remarked, they would all have been glad to transport the coin for nothing, had it been left on deposit subject to the orders of the treasurer. THE STOCK MARKET.

The local stock market is fairly strong but apathetic. There are a lot of The local stock market is fairly strong but apathetic. There are a lot of bidders willing and anxious to buy Ewa at twenty dollars a share, the ruling price last week, but the brokers can find no sellers at that figure. About four hundred shares changed hands about the middle of the month, which was evidently the total of the floating supply. Some Ewa is offered at $21 and $21 1-2 but the buyers want it only at par, and seem confident of bringing it out at $20. Oahu Sugar Co. is down to $92.50 a figure which has been offered for some time without bringing any of the stock out. Fifteen shares changed hands at that figure during the week, although the stock has been held at $95 all along. Ten Kahuku sold at $20, the old figure.

The reciprocity treaty has not affected the local market, although there is still considerable uncertainty and guessing as to the future of the sugar market. The news from London of weakening in beet sugar makes some of the experts believe that cane may follow suit.

JAPAN AND RUSSIA.

It is strange that such an error should prevail in journalism as that war must be commenced by a formal Declaration. That the blunder is extant and wide spread is evidenced by the columns of many of our contemporaries on the mainland and in the Hawaiian Islands. Acts of war almost invariably precede Declarations of War. The greatest contests in history have been initiated, when ill-feeling and the inclination to hostilities between two nations had been developed, by some incident, in itself trifling, such as an accidental collision on a frontier or at sea. Very frequently, after preliminary engagements and before the acts of war had become so widespread and numerous as to render settlement or compromise imouts have been made between opposing nations and peace has been restored before it was too late.

No outsider can tell, perhaps even leading statesmen would be puzzled to determine, whether there will be a contest between Russia and Japan. Both nations are measurably Asiatic, and the progress of Japan within the last fifty years ha been astonishing. She has been aptly described as "the Great Britain of the Orient." The Japanese are very cocky. Wherever they are, each one carries the whole empire in his breast, as has been evidenced by numerous feasts and by the advancing tide of returning Japanese sojourners from the Hawaiian Islands to their native land. Under all governments, the most arbitrary as well as the most liberal, the pressure of public opinion may render war inevitable.

But the statesmanship and the diplomacy of Japan are far more conservative than the impulses of her people, and settled public opinion is very different to frothy though patriotic sentiment. Every resource of negotiation will be exhausted before the Japanese Empire plunges into a life and death struggle with the semi-Asiatic giant, who has his headquarters at St. Petersburg. Russia has broken its word in Manchuria as it broke its word in Finland, but, though weakened by internal trouble and by issues in the Balkan States and handicapped by world-wide comprehension of her treachery, she is nevertheless steadily pressing her ancient policy in the far East, with as much persistency as though the Twentieth were the Eighteenth Century. There is, however, method in her apparent madness, and her vicious and treacherous policy conflicts with the imperial purposes of Great Britain and with the commercial expansion of Uncle Sam. The great fleet that is to be assembled speedily in these waters will have an eye on the "open door", not only on the Isthmus of Panama, but in the Manchurian province.

The chance for alliances is unquestionably an important, perhaps the governing, question in the controversy. Great Britain cannot aid Japan, under her treaty, if she copes only with a single power, and a war between Japan and Russia; each by itself, would be of doubtful issue. If France should be drawn to the side of Russia and Great Britain to the side of Japan, and especially if Uncle Sam should deem it expedient to throw, his weight in favor of free commerce, the struggle would be of almost incomparable intensity, but the result would be a duplication of the end of the Crimean War, when Great Britain and France were allies. The Muscovite would be expelled from China, which would be opened to trade and irradiated by modern civilization. In view of the friendly relations lately cemented between King Edward and the foremost European powers, especially with France, it is likely that Great Britain and the French Republic hold the balance in the negotiations that are proceeding, and, while avoiding unnecessary entanglements, Uncle Sam is not altogether a disinterested spectator.

The situation is indefinite and embarrassing. It resembles a smouldering fire that may break out at any moment and yet may be extinguished before it does severe damage. The prevailing indications are towards amicable settlement. The cost and havor of great wars in this age, both on land and at sea, are so enormou that the combined interests and influence of mankind converge on peace. Sentiment has its proper relation to nationality, but financial considerations are now practically controlling. In this respect, neither Russia nor Japan occupies a cont manding position. Each nation will think a good many times before it risks its future on its credit.

On the whole, journalistic wisdom is expressed by the terse French epitome of uncertainty-nous verrons.

THAT FATAL NEGLECT.

A tremendous majority of the evils in the world arise from mere neglect. The worst dis-eases we suffer from and die of, sceal on us unawares. A bleeding wound, or a sudden sharp pain, we jump to relieve either of them in a twinkling. But a dull feeling in the head, loss of appetite, failure of force and snap, a little feverishness at night, gloom and depression about nothing in particular, a tendency to be irritable over trifles, why should you be anxious on these grounds? No doubt they will pass off like a drift-ing cloud and you will be all right again. We are apt to reason thus, and fancy these symptoms to have no serious mean-Unchecked and only half understood the trouble creeps on until it culminates in local organic disease difficult to cure. The blood poisons, of which the feelings named are signs and warnings, may end in any one or more of a dozen things; lung, heart, liver or nervous disorders, or in some wasting process in which life melts away like snow before a warm wind. You may prevent it by using WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION which will surely and speedily cleanse the blood of its deadly load, stimulate the appetite, infuse new power into the nerves. clear the foggy brain, set the di-gestive mill in full operation, send the doleful worries flying from the mind, and soon make all things new. COOPER IS CHOICE FOR HEALTH BOARD PRESIDENT

The Republican Executive Committee at a meeting held yesterday decided to recommend Dr. Charles B. Cooper, the present incumbent, for the presidency of the Board of Health. The contest lay between Cooper and E. C. Winston, a medical and a business man. It was finally decided that the interests of the Territory demanded a professional man as the head of the health department, and the committee accordingly decided to recommend the reappointment of Dr. Cooper to Governor Carter.

It is not known what action was taken in relation to the sur-
